Overall Plan Configuration:	Simple rectangle	Window Material/Type:	Alum/DbI Hung/Removable Wood storms

ARCHITECTURAL FEATURES: The low horizontal line together with the high windowsills, create an odd sense of proportion. All of the windows are small. The heads of the windows run tight to the boxed soffits.

ALTERATIONS: The porch was added. The window heads do not align with the rest of the window heads. Reverse board and batten siding was used to side the porch.

Exterior Walls (Original): Clapboard/Wood Shingles

Foundation: Stone

Roof Type/Material: Cross Gable/Asphalt shingles

Window Material/Type: Wd/Alum/Dbl Hung

ARCHITECTURAL FEATURES: A Greek Revival front porch is a curious design element of the front façade. CIP concrete steps with an ornamental wrought iron railing lead the visitor to the entrance. The front gable 1st floor window features a stained glass transom. The eaves are boxed in with wood. A one story bay window is located on the east elevation.

ALTERATIONS: The porch appears to have been added since the rest of the house has a stone foundation. The front gable end has been re-shingled recently.

ARCHITECTURAL FEATURES: Simple house with little trim. What trim there is plain. None of the windows have muntin bars.

ALTERATIONS: The additions to the rear and the front entry have flat roofs that are non-conforming with the original roofs. The closed in front porch design with the cast iron columns, front doors, and "mansard" roof edge is unsympathetic with the original house. All of the original trim has been covered with aluminum. The bay window on the east elevation was added at a later date.

ARCHITECTURAL FEATURES: The roof of the small front porch at the front gable is supported by three full height turned wood columns. The front gabled mass appears to be the original house, everything else appears to have been added at a later date. The windows have relatively broad flat wooden trim with a shaped piece at the head. There is a continuous frieze molding at the eave and the eaves are relatively narrow. The one story additions have shed type roofs while the two story east wing is a cross gable relative to the original roof.

ALTERATIONS: It appears that the porch, the east 2 story & 1-story wing, and the small rear entry were added at a later date. All of the additions were sensitively designed and, for the most part, are sympathetic to the original house.

Overall Plan Configuration: Simple rectangle

Exterior Walls (Current): Clapboard

Exterior Walls (Original): Clapboard

Foundation: CMU w/ beaded joints

Roof Type/Material: Front gable/Asphalt shingle

Window Material/Type: Wood trim/Aluminum inserts/Double hung

ARCHITECTURAL FEATURES: The front porch, which features turned columns and ornamental wooden brackets, runs the full width of the house. The balusters are square, indicating that they were probably replaced. This is a simple, unassuming house with the charming character of the Victorian style. Fish scale shingles articulate the front gable under the narrow overhang. A one story bay adds interest to the side elevation.

ALTERATIONS: The porch balusters were replaced.

Roof Type/Material: Front gable/Asphalt shingle

Window Material/Type: Wd/Alum/Dbh hung

ARCHITECTURAL FEATURES: The basic form of the original Cape Cod is in tact. Any original details have been concealed through remodeling.

ALTERATIONS: An addition was made to the east side of the house that has jalousie windows and a shallow pitched hipped roof. Another addition was made to the south side of the house that features a flat roof encircled with a wrought iron railing. The additions have concrete foundations. Wooden steps with wrought iron railings reach the front door. A wrought iron storm door was installed during remodeling.

Overall Plan Configuration:	Compound L w/addition	Window Material/Type:	Alum/Double hung

ARCHITECTURAL FEATURES: The dominant front gable has cutaway corners w/ some scalloped trim. There is fish-scale siding above the second floor window located in the front gable. A gabled roofed wall dormer is centered over the front entry. A four season front porch serves as the entry. This house is relatively simply detailed than is typical for the style.

ALTERATIONS: The front porch was added after the original house was built. The detailing is not sympathetic to the original. The window trim, the front storm door, and the light fixtures do not fit with the rest of the house. The soffits are aluminum. A typical Victorian porch would have been open with the roof being supported with freestanding columns.

ALTERATIONS: The closed in four season porch is an obvious later addition as is the rear 1 story area with the shed roof. The aluminum siding, soffits, and windows were also later modifications. Little remains of the original wood detailing. Two entry stairs that were constructed with pressure treated wood have been added to the east and west sides of the house. A bay window has been added to the west side of the house.
