after ca. 1850–1890

The nature of American folk housing changed dramatically as railroads mushroomed across the continent in the decades from 1850 to 1890. Modest dwellings built far from water transport were no longer restricted to local materials. Instead, bulky items used for construction, particularly lumber from distant sawmills in heavily forested areas, could now be moved rapidly and cheaply over long distances. As a result, large lumberyards quickly became standard fixtures in the thousands of new towns which sprouted as trade centers along the railroad routes. Soon folk houses built with logs, sod, or heavy hewn timbers were being abandoned for wooden dwellings constructed with light balloon or braced framing covered by wood sheathing. The railroads thus changed the traditional building materials and construction techniques of folk dwellings over much of the nation. By the turn of the century, pre-railroad building traditions survived only in isolated areas far from the nearest rail service.

The railroad-inspired era of national folk housing did not completely erase the earlier traditions, however, for many of the previous folk shapes persisted even though now built by different techniques. These, along with some new shape innovations, make up the distinctive families of house shapes that dominated American folk building through the first half of the 20th century. Only recently have these generally been abandoned for still other forms of folk dwellings (see pages 496–99).

After the expansion of the railroads, gable-front houses remained common in the northeastern region formerly dominated by the New England folk tradition, as did similar massed plans with an added extension known as gable-front-and-wing houses. In much of the remaining eastern half of the country, hall-and-parlor and I-house shapes, both descended from the Tidewater South tradition by way of the Midland log adaptations, remained the dominant folk dwellings. All of these later folk forms, however, tend to show much less geographic restriction than did their pre-railroad predecessors, for as transportation and communication improved, each shape became distributed beyond its area of traditional dominance. Light framing techniques also led to new folk forms which grew in popularity through the early decades of this century. These were generally massed-plan houses that were now relatively simple to construct because light wooden roof framing could easily be adapted to span two-room depths. Such houses, when of rectangular shape, normally had side-gabled roofs and are called massed-plan, side-gabled folk houses. More nearly square plans typically had pyramidal (equilateral hipped) roofs.

GABLE-FRONT FAMILY

The Greek Revival movement, which dominated American styled houses during the period from 1830 to 1850, commonly used the front-gabled shape to echo the pedimented facade of typical Greek temples. This form was particularly common in New England and the adjacent northeast region where simple gable-front folk houses also became popular during the pre-railroad era. This shape persisted with the expansion of the eastern railroad network in the 1850s and became a dominant folk form until well into the 20th century. Gable-front houses were particularly suited for narrow urban lots in the rapidly expanding cities of the northeast. There, many late 19th- and early 20th-century neighborhoods are dominated by both styled and simple folk examples built in this form. Most are narrow, two-story houses with relatively steep roof pitches. A related one-story urban form first became common in expanding southern cities in the late 19th century. This is the shotgun house, narrow gable-front dwellings one room wide that dominated many modest southern neighborhoods built from about 1880 to 1930. Some are elaborately styled but most are simple folk houses. The origin of these southern shotgun houses has been much debated. Some scholars note that similar forms are common in the West Indies and trace them from Africa to early Haitian influences in New Orleans, whence they became popular with Black freedmen migrating to southern urban centers following the Civil War. A less complex theory is that they are simply the familiar one-room-deep, hall-and-parlor plan of the rural South turned sideways to accommodate narrow urban lots.

An additional wave of interest in the gable-front shape grew from styled houses of the early 20th-century Craftsman movement, which were typically built in this form. Many modest folk houses without stylistic detailing were inspired by such Craftsman houses in the decades from 1910 to 1930. These are usually one-story, double-width forms with low-pitched roofs; they are most common in rural areas and occur throughout the country.

210 Cedar Avenue Description

Built in 1848 on Lot 6, Block 21 of the Original Town of St. Charles, Kane County, Illinois (see attached), by Jane Walker (see attached), this beautifully restored National Gable style house (see attached) resides prominently in an area known as Century Corners within walking distance of Baker Memorial Church, Pottawatomie Park, the Fox River, and the heart of the city downtown. Shingle cladding was added later which might have caused confusion on a 1994 area architectural review by Mike Dixon with a gabled roof. It appears the bay window, porch and top round window are not original and are not contributing to the style. The building is now known as 210 Cedar an event site. The Morse family owned the property for 120 years from 1855 to 1975. Levi Morse (see attached) is the known resident having been born is 1850 and his name on the Morse building located on the south side of Main across the street from the municipal center. Levi, along with two others rebuilt that section of town in 1895 after the great fire which destroyed the then existing buildings.

Osgood, Hunt and Morse Block

Image credit: St. Charles Public Library

Most of the buildings in what is known as the Osgood, Hunt, and Morse Block were constructed around 1896 after earlier structures were destroyed. In April 1895, embers from a fire in the Fredenhagen Mill across the street (the present location of the Municipal Building) spread to the business buildings in this block and all but two of them were demolished. One of the remaining walls collapsed during a severe storm one month later. Falling debris killed four people and destroyed Anderson Dressmaking and Church's Milliner Shop. W.Frank Osgood, Bela Hunt, and Levi Morse rebuilt the entire block.

Another dramatic event took place in this block in 1915. A Chicago Great Western Railway train jumped the tracks on the siding rail that ran near where the Municipal Center stands today and struck the 12 E. Main Street building. The accident caused little damage to the building and no injuries were reported.

Many businesses and professional offices have occupied the Osgood, Hunt, and Morse Block since 1896 when Levi and William Morse opened a meat market in the Morse Building. During the early 1910s, Louis Kreeger ran a dry goods store and Joseph A. Saperston owned a grocery and fruit store in the block. Arvid O. Johnson established a tailor shop in the 1920s at the 9 E. Main Street address. The National Tea Company was located next door at 10 E. Main Street. The John Stewart and Company Bank occupied 5 E. Main Street from 1902-1930. The State Bank of St. Charles acquired the Stewart Bank building in 1930. In 1965 the State Bank of St. Charles moved to the modern structure it built at 1 E. Main Street. The Harris Bank took over the State Bank's operation in 1988. Sandholm's Meat Market flourished through the 1920s, and Glos and Hunt Hardware stores occupied the block at the turn of the 19th century. Burger Drugs established its pharmacy business in 1938 at 11 E. Main Street and later moved to 9 E. Main Street when the National Tea Store vacated the property in 1951. Burger Drugs closed in 2008 after nearly 70 years in business. Smitty's On the Corner sandwich shop opened at 15 E. Main Street in February, 2000.

Over the years, doctors Van Patten, I.G. Langum, Elvero Pierson, Ralph Edwards and C.L. Smith operated medical and dental offices above the retail businesses. Lawyers Charles L. Hunt, Harry Hempstead, and D.A. Green also occupied the second floor offices.

The BMO Harris Bank currently owns most of the buildings in the Osgood, Hunt, and Morse Block.

BIG REVENUE JUSTIFIES A LARGER P O.

18Wks. Income $63,000 Proposed Bldg. only $54,500.

Leaving yesterday afternoon for Washington, were Mayor Langum, Lester J. Norris and E. J. Baker who went to Washington, D. C., in the interest of a post office building, specifications for which have been given and bids from contractors asked.

The call for the journey was the meagre amount allotted for a post office building which is about one half of the amount of the appropriation made years ago when the local office was contributing to the government about one third the amount of revenue coming in now.

The two firms of Seedsman Pike and Hawley Products Co. are big mailers, bringing the revenue of this year which is not yet half gone, up to $63,000 and the amount alloted for the building is but $54,500.

The outlook for mailings from other added factories will lead St. Charles revenue to equal or exceed any post office in Kane county.

Mrs. Helen McCarthy, local postmaster, who is making every effort to help the above persons in their desire to put the need of a more commodious building before the proper authorities in Washinton, submits the following statement of gross receipts for calendar years 1928 to date:

Revenue for 1928 was $25,272.25, for 1929 $32,625.67, for 1930 $39,748.01, for 1931 $51,537.81, for 1932 $84,364.37, for 1933 $84,973.96, for 1934, $93,179.61. Revenue from Jan. 1, 1935 to May 14, is $61,965.46.

Aside from the main object of their trip to Washington which was securing a larger post office building allotment, the three St. Charles men will urge an elevated highway system in Chicago from Austin avenue to the Chicago river.

Leaders in Fox river towns met in St. Charles Monday evening to discuss this improvement which is believed would work to a vast advantage both to the big city and the valley towns.

Lester J. Norris, president of the Fox Valley Federation was named to meet with Chicago and other representatives in Washington tomorrow to ask federal funds for this superhighway. Mr. Norris will confer with Frank C. Walker, chief advisor of the president, in the expenditure of the four billion dollars work relief fund.

In addition to giving an army of men work, this highway would shorten the distance and make for safety the drive into Chicago.

C. A. Anderson and Max A. Lehmann contractors have each taken out specifications to bid on the proposed post office building to be erected on the lots owned by the government for such construction on Walnut and Second streets opposite the Community House.

Mr. Anderson and Mr. Lehmann have constructed St. Charles' modern buildings and are well qualified to do such work on any scale.

Specifications are at the post office.

GIRL SCOUT COUNCIL MEETS TUESDAY NIGHT ASK GIRLS FOR FLOWERS

A meeting of the Girl Scout council was held Tuesday evening. Resolutions which an appointed committee had formed were read and approved.

Girl Scouts are to be asked to take flowers to the Community House the day before Memorial Day to be made into wreaths for decorating graves of veterans. Also the Girl Scouts are asked to contribute the flowers which are to be sent through the summer to the underprivileged in Chicago.

ELECTION NOTICE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN: That on Tuesday, July 9th, 1935, at Carl Olson's office, 12 South Second Street, in the Second Ward, in the City of St. Charles, Kane County, Illinois, an election will be held for the election of One Alderman, which election will be open at six o'clock in the morning and continue until five o'clock in the afternoon of that day.

Dated this 9th day of May, 1935.

A. F. PEARSON,
City Clerk.

ANNUAL MEETING OF COMMUNITY CENTER BOARD

The annual meeting of the Board of Managers of the Henry Bockwell Baker Memorial Community Center will be held next Monday evening, May 20th, at Hotel Baker. A dinner will precede the business session. Following the business session, plans will be announced for the program of activities for the coming year.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Loose V. Spriet.

Mrs. Leona Spriet, widow of Charles Spriet, Sr., died at the home of her son Charles, May 8th, aged 76 years.

An active woman all her life, ill health overtook her a few weeks ago, and to her only daughter, Mrs. Martha Vandenbrook of Jersey City, N. J., who came on a visit to her mother a month ago, she confided that she was not to get well. Her words were prophetic.

Mrs. Spriet was born in Belgium, but came to America before her marriage 50 years ago, and lived in Detroit for a time. The family came here from Moline, Ill. about 1900. Mr. Spriet died six years ago.

Her maiden name was Vandecapella, a well known Belgium family.

Aside from the daughters, are four sons: Henry, Frank, Charles and Edwin. There are seven grandchildren, also one sister, Mrs. Henry Spriet.

The funeral services were held Saturday, in the home, at 9:30 and at St. Patrick's church, Rev. R. J. Carse officiating. A faithful member of this church, Mrs. Spriet had never missed a Sunday service until her last illness.

Tearlessly she spoke of going home to meet loved ones, and calmly passed on, leaving loving remembrances to her family and friends.

Mrs. Wm. R. Goodman.

Another former resident of St. Charles has gone to her long home.

Estelle Goodhue Goodman, a resident of Palisade from 1905 to 1929 died at her home near Riverside, California, on Sunday, May 5, 1935.

Mrs. Goodman was born at Freeport, Ill., February 9, 1864. She moved with her family to St. Charles in 1875, where she and Wm. R. Goodman were school mates and where they were married on June 19, 1890. Mr. Goodman attended the East Side school.

The Goodmans lived in Chicago until 1902 and there two sons were born, both dying in infancy.

Mr. Goodman's business took them to Buffalo, N. Y. in 1902, where they lived for two years and in 1904 they moved to New York City. Mrs. Goodman was active in the founding of the Union church of Palisade and in organizing the Woman's league of that church. She was best known to her friends as a home maker and she loved her garden.

During last October and November, Mrs. Goodman suffered from attacks of angina pectoris and later from bright's disease.

Services were held in Glendale, Calif., Rev. J. Whitcomb Brogher, Jr., officiating. Interment at St. Charles, conducted by Lee W. Beattie, D. D., of New York, pastor emeritus of Union church of Palisade.

Mrs. Goodman is survived by her husband, W. R. Goodman of Riverside, Calif., and sister, Eleanor M. Goodhue of Glendale, Calif. Two brothers, formerly well known in St. Charles, F. M. and Ellsworth, passed away in California within the last few years.

Elliott Writes of Old Time Friends, & New, Who Are Laid to Rest

By U. S. Elliott.

An extremely heavy toll by death has lately removed several old time St. Charles citizens to their eternal rest. Some of the departed always have made their home here in St. Charles, while others, years ago removed to homes in other parts which they adopted. The death toll being so extremely heavy at this time, the writer must be brief and not tell too long stories regarding the life time memories of each individual.

Levi Morse, the most aged old timer to pass on, died lately in his adopted western home. He was born here in St. Charles, July 4th, 1850, and until the close, or there about of the 19th century, had always made St. Charles his home. Levi Morse, 50 years ago, was a well known citizen of St. Charles. He was then an expert paper maker and machine tender in the Brownell and Miller paper mills. He was for many years a deacon and usher in the Congregational church. He was also a member of the Good Templar Society of which the Chronicle lately re-published 57 years ago news items stating: "Levi Morse and Alex ('Ick') Sill were delegates to a Good Templar Convention." If space would permit I would tell of a Good Templar picnic then held in Jones' Woods, which I, as teamster and truckman, attended. But, the death toll being now so heavy, I must hasten on and only tell brief sketches and stories of the departed ones while they were here to take part.

In later years Levi, and his brother Will ran a meat market known as Morse Bros. Market. At one time they had their market at west end of Main street bridge, where now is located the Log Cabin lunch room. Later they had their market in the John Gartner Bakery store building, and while here, in the holiday season, a live turkey made an escape by flying through one of the plate glass windows.

Levi Morse suffered severe fire loss of his store building in the great 1895 Stewart Bros. mill fire. But nevertheless, Levi was plucky, he re-built his store building now known as Morse Block which he still owned at his death, and now occupied by the National Tea Company.

Mrs. Lizzie Ward Minard the next most aged old timer to pass on will be remembered by a few who were her pupils when she, as Lizzie Ward, was "School Marm" in the Intermediate Department of old District No. 7 East Side school in the early 1870's. (Note: An error was lately made in the Chronicle wherein was stated "Mrs. Minard came to St. Charles in 1877," etc., in 1887 when she

St. Charles Ball Fans See Stars in Action and Fonseca in Person

Baseball fans of St. Charles will have an opportunity on Thursday, June 6th, to hear Lew Fonseca give his lectures on baseball and see the film "Play Ball" which has been prepared under his supervision.

The film shows closeups and slow motion shots of "Babe" Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Mickey Cochrane, "School Boy" Rowe. Jimmy Foxx, Rogers Hornsby, and many others. Continuing with a descriptive play by play around the diamond, Mickey Cochrane demonstrates how signals are flashed. Joe Cronin shows how short-stop is played. Pitching pointers are given by American League stars. Rogers Hornsby explains the correct stance at the plate, wrist action, proper timing, and the follow-through swing.

The purpose of the picture is to teach the youngsters baseball, and by showing the American League stars in their various positions on the screen, the ambitious lad will learn much and help to develop future big leaguers. Also to give the fans a better knowledge of the many inside plays of the game. With the aid of sound, Mr. Fonseca explains all the "shots".

Lew Fonseca's appearance in St. Charles is being sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and the showing will be held in the Community Center auditorium. C. L. Nieman, president of the Chamber of Commerce announces that tickets for the showing may be obtained free from members of the Chamber or from the Secretary, R. F. Munn, at the Community Center.

Kane Co. Council of Social Agencies to Carry on Relief Work

In March St. Charles had 300 unemployed, registered persons on relief. Kane county has a total of 4,300 families.

Awaiting relief appropriations from the government, the work will be administered by the township.

Action was taken Tuesday for a state wide cut in the relief rolls when a bulletin outlining the procedure to be followed was sent out to all county relief committees by Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission.

It is estimated that the program will effect a reduction of 10 per cent in the number of relief families, now 312,000. This would result in a saving of $1,100,000 monthly in actual expenditures for relief, plus a saving of perhaps $100,000 in administrative costs. The average monthly cost of relief in Illinois is $12,000,000 of which more than $1,000,000 goes for administrative expenses.

TABLE CLATTER

By Lisa S. Paschal.

The Patman bonus bill before Congress is expected to be vetoed. "Billions for spenders, but not one cent for the veteran." Yes, it sounds strange.

It is nearing the Day of Remembrance. You recall how you watched almost breathless for the numbers which would call the boys from their homes to the camps.

It was interesting to watch one condition in my own place of business, for out of that one block went a squad of young men, two out of The Chronicle, and a man above ago, a few doors west, went to an eastern shipboard and made $18 per day driving nails while these boys faced hades, and sometimes, after months of delay got a dollar. Now they call it a "Bonus!"

Serums, then in the guessing stage were poured into the veins of these young men. I employed one of these veterans, member of a machine gun corps with his arm almost helpless from perforations, but no disability allowed. He was hungry not long ago when I heard from him. But none of "OUR" billions are allotted to such as he.

When we have justly given back again
To the maimed body and bewildered brain,
New strength and light and will to take one's part,
In the world's work at field or desk or mart,
When this old joy of living we restore,
We shall have paid a little of our score.

The recently aired factional differences at a Batavia church wherein the older members and the newer generation interpreted scripture in opposite directions reminds me of some parallel happenings in the little home church a mile and a half from our Iowa farm.

They sang psalms and regarded instrumental music as belonging to the hoof and horn tribe. Then along came the youngsters with later views. They quietly installed a church organ and felt the delights of victory in their systems. But it rained one of those Iowa downpours that night and next morning one of the organ-installers, passing the church, stared in amazement and disgust. Outside the back door, soaked through, stood the new organ.

They fought it out, but it was hard on the church body, and the old structure, which housed the largest worshipping body in that little town years ago caught fire and burned down.

All of our immediate neighbors belonged to this church They were a high-class prosperous people, but "woe was me" if I started to whistle on the Sabbath, or called the day "Sunday," in their hearing

Sometimes we neighboring children swapped over-night visits. I liked to go to the Browns. Like the custom at my own home, they had evening worship. But they sang Psalms, and not one of the family could carry a tune. I hope I have been forgiven for the way I hid behind the book they gave me while each member of the family chose his own key and sang when the words still held out and the tune was ended

By the way, AAA Wallace's grandfather was once the pastor of this church, which merged with the Presbyterians, a denomination the elders would not at one time have countenanced

The Brain Trust several months ago repealed the law of supply and demand. Evidently has repealed the law of gravitation, too That must be what makes it so hard to keep your feet on the ground

A reminiscence: I was at the Ry station in Elgin, in 1917 I saw two of my townspeople in the waiting room. They were Mr and Mrs. F. J Hahn They awaited their son Paul, who was coming from a southern camp to go to the Rock Island arsenal, by orders from the War Dept Pretty soon in came Paul He looked like a boy in the school grade. So young and eager he appeared I slipped out of the room after greeting him How could I endure the fare well? Yes, he came back home after experiencing the horrors of battle and injury Yes, he died the other day How could he have the endurance to fight a serious ailment? He had gone through too much Will the bonus be vetoed?

If ye break faith
With us who die,
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields."

LIL' THEATRE'S "THE BAD MAN" PLAY SCORES

Mexican Bandit and Wheel-Chair Uncle Make Big Hit.

"The Bad Man" given at the High School auditorium Tuesday evening by the Little Theatre, was perhaps one of the most pretentious presentation they have yet made.

It was a full evening's play and the Mexican atmosphere pervaded the big stage and over-ran the big auditorium.

The stage settings were rich in Mexican handicraft, and rangers, topped with sombreros added to the realism.

The depression had struck the ranch of Gilbert Jones and was he dented?

Uncle Henry Smith skidded off so many "gol-darned" miles in his wheel chair that the meter almost struck fire.

Things were in a bad enough way, when a bandit, Pancho Lopes broke in arrayed in gorgeous and appropriate attire including a gun wallet. He felled an enemy with his gun, but the coroner failed in a verdict so the corpse got up without even a headache.

The audience thoroughly enjoyed the presentation which showed each character doing splendid work.

The heroes were all he-men and the young women were lovely.

Out of a total cast of twelve, only three players were women. They were Esther Newmark Friedman, who played the role of Lucia, unhappy wife of Morgan Pell, villainous Wall Street promoter; Margaret Langell, who played fickle Angela Hardy; and Marguerite Clarke, who portrayed Alvarado, the Mexican cook.

The male roles were played by Bill Fisher as Gilbert Jones, Arizona rancher; Alex Sylkaitis as Morgan Pell of Wall street; Louis Thompson in the title role as Pancho Lopez, Mexican bandit leader; Robert Claeys as Hardy, loan-shark; Irving Wheeler as Gilbert's wheel chair-confined Uncle Henry, Robert Nord as comically romantic Fred Giddings, ranch helper; Lester Oman and Price Wunderle as Venustiano and Pedro, Lopez's lieutenants; and Ray Anderson and Burton Bowgren as Bradley and Blake, Texas rangers.

On the production staff, Lester Oman was business manager; Ray Anderson was advertiser; Terry Zimmerman, Vera Howard and Seymour Friedman were the ticket committee; Francis Claeys was stage manager; Mrs. L. A. King and Miss Lois McCornack wardrobes; Betty Crowe, Raymond Ronan and Janet Maltby, properties; Bess Livings and Margaret Mitchell, make-up; Vivian Pentlicoff, programs and Margaret Cope, music.

There was a time during the performance, when it looked like Uncle Henry Smith, (Irving Wheeler) and Pancho Lopez, (Louis Thompson) were running away with the show. However all were excellent in their parts and showed professional skill.

Did You Escape from Chain Gang? Maybe You Cashed in on It

Chain letters, dime and dollar type became an epidemic in St. Charles almost overnight.

Fairy tales of persons who have received immense sums from such letters have, in some instances been followed up with disastrous results to the original tale.

One case in point was a statement that one woman on an east side street had received a big sum. But on tracking down the footprints, it was found that the husband, who is employed in a Chicago office, heard of a man who knew a woman whose brother-in-law's first wife's cousin in the east had a neighbor whose grandfather got the pot of gold, $700 00

It is true however that several in town have had nice little sums from their chain Howard Smith received between twenty and thirty dollars and Morris Eisenberg cashed in on about $8. So have a few others who sent out two letters with $1 in each got returns to cover their investment.

The broken chain cuts in on the returns. But for this an endless amount of cash might flow in St Charles has been manipulating for the most part with the dollar chain

There has been a strong urge to get out the old moth-eaten dollar This may be an answer to the miser's prayer, and yet the banks may not get a bulge from heavy deposits. 'Tis a hard world for the plodder and a ticklish one for the trickster

Verily there seem to be few members of the sucker club who are weaned

The St. Charles Unit of the Home Bureau will sponsor a card party and dance on Saturday evening, May 18th, at the Little Wood Tabrit in St. Charles Monday evening to discuss this improvement which is believed would work to a vast advantage both to the big city and the valley towns.

Lester J. Norris, president of the Fox Valley Federation was named to meet with Chicago and other representatives in Washington tomorrow to ask federal funds for this superhighway. Mr. Norris will confer with Frank C. Walker, chief advisor of the president, in the expenditure of the four billion dollars work relief fund.

In addition to giving an army of men work, this highway would shorten the distance and make for safety the drive into Chicago.

C. A. Anderson and Max A. Lehmann contractors have each taken out specifications to bid on the proposed post office building to be erected on the lots owned by the government for such construction on Walnut and Second streets opposite the Community House.

Mr. Anderson and Mr. Lehmann have constructed St. Charles' modern buildings and are well qualified to do such work on any scale.

Specifications are at the post office.

If space would permit I could tell of a Good Templar picnic then held in Jones' Woods, which I, as teamster and truckman, attended. But, the death toll being now so heavy, I must hasten on and only tell brief sketches and stories of the departed ones while they were here to take part.

In later years Levi, and his brother Will ran a meat market known as Morse Bros. Market. At one time they had their market at west end of Main street bridge, where now is located the Log Cabin lunch room. Later they had their market in the John Gartner Bakery store building, and while here, in the holiday season, a live turkey made an escape by flying through one of the plate glass windows.

Levi Morse suffered severe fire loss of his store building in the great 1895 Stewart Bros. mill fire. But nevertheless, Levi was plucky, he re-built his store building now known as Morse Block which he still owned at his death, and now occupied by the National Tea Company.

Elliott Writes of Old Time Friends, & New, Who Are Laid to Rest

By U. S. Elliott.

An extremely heavy toll by death has lately removed several old time St. Charles citizens to their eternal rest. Some of the departed always have made their home here in St. Charles, while others, years ago removed to homes in other parts which they adopted. The death toll being so extremely heavy at this time, the writer must be brief and not tell too long stories regarding the life time memories of each individual.

Levi Morse, the most aged old timer to pass on, died lately in his adopted western home. He was born here in St. Charles, July 4th, 1850, and until the close, or there about of the 19th century, had always made St. Charles his home. Levi Morse, 50 years ago, was a well known citizen of St. Charles. He was then an expert paper maker and machine tender in the Brownell and Miller paper mills. He was for many years a deacon and usher in the Congregational church. He was also a member of the Good Templar Society of which the Chronicle lately re-published 57

the Chronicle lately re-published 57 years ago news items stating: "Levi Morse and Alex ('Ick') Sill were delegates to a Good Templar Convention." If space would permit I could tell of a Good Templar picnic then held in Jones' Woods, which I, as teamster and truckman, attended. But, the death toll being now so heavy, I must hasten on and only tell brief sketches and stories of the departed ones while they were here to take part.
